About the Artist

Artist Manou Marzban is an Iranian-American contemporary pop artist based in France. Manou's abstract works, called 'Streaks', gained instant recognition for their bright use of acrylics.

Manou's art is infused with symbols from popular culture and references to history. His paintings combine bright colors with broad strokes. Manou's work exude energy and provocation. His installations include ping pong tables, TVs, furniture, car-parts and other items, and combine a myriad of images to reflect the artists strong opinions on history, politics and popular culture.

Manou's work has been featured on the front page of the Art & Culture section of the Huffington Post ("Engaging and intriguing Manou's work are never too sad or too serious"), PBS ("His enthusiasm is contagious"), France's RTL ("An emerging artist with a colorful vision") and Le Monde ("The Persian Banksy"). He has had expositions throughout Europe including events in Berlin, Paris, Nice, Monaco, Baltimore, Geneva and Stockholm. His next event is planned for autumn 2017 in London.
